

Mad Jock, Caledonia being the Scottish word for Scotland.

Enough to scare the living daylights out of you.

Notice the Saltire flapping in the breeze.

FIGUREHEAD. NAVAL BARRACK GATE, SHOTLEY. 25

A different exposure of Mad Jock

H.M.S. CALEDONIA
1810 - 1906

Admiral Lord St Vincent

H. M. S. SEVINCENT
1815 - 1906

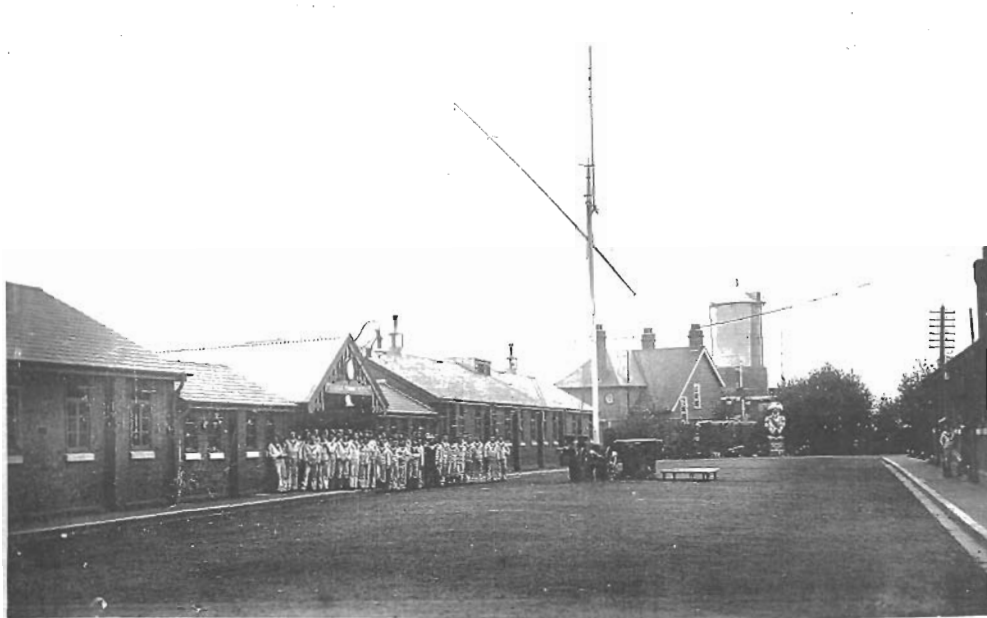

This time with a different time exposure

H.M.S. ST VINCENT
1815 - 1906

FIGUREHEAD. NAVAL BARRACK GATE. SHOTLEY. No. 22.

The Quarterdeck. Boys all huddle around the entrance to the Long Covered Way. Note clock above. Far end, the large house with a figurehead guarding the entrance to it, is the QARNNS Mess and beyond it the signal tower.

Long Covered Way – note the petty officer[s] in blue uniforms. Note also the very neat line of washing hanging out to dry and halfway down the covered way, a ceiling hung clock tells the boys the time.

Main Gate entrance. Note the unmade dirt track road leading to the gates and some earth works to the left.

A Collage of 6 sites:

Quarterdeck – Ganges II – Entrance and Figureheads – Dining Hall [more or less opposite to the main galley half way down the long covered way] – Shotley Barracks from the Pier [Admiralty Pier that is] – Seamen and Marines Quarters [ships company].

S. 4104 QUARTER DOCK

S. 4105 H. M. S. "GANGES II"

S. 4106 ENTRANCE & FISHING HEADS

GREETINGS
FROM SHOTLEY BARRACKS.

S. 4107 DINING HALL

S. 4108 SHOTLEY BARRACKS FROM PIER

S. 4109 SEAMEN & MACHINES SHEDS